Measure Area

- The first click on the map sets the starting point.
- Each successive single click adds a point to the area polygon.
- Double clicking on a point adds the last point and measures the complete area.
- A new single click on the map starts the process of creating a new area to measure.
- The original tool button automatically changes into a 'clear measurements' button (see below), which will clear all areas if clicked:

Measure Distance

- The first click on the map sets the starting point.
- Each successive single click adds a point to the line.
- Double-clicking on a point adds the last point. The length of the line is then measured.
- A new single click on the map starts a line measurement.
- The original tool button changes into a 'clear measurements' button and will clear all lines:
